HARRIS COUNTY JUVENILE PROBATION DEPARTMENT

A PROFILE OF CAUSE AND EFFECT ON SERVICES

The impact of the 1973 Legislation creating the "Juvenile Code" began on September 1, 1973 with a 60% increase of referrals in that month and continuing in the subsequent months of the year. A breakdown in process occurred, and although staff were added, it did not compensate for the deluge of referrals. The Department was effected structurally and programmatically. Immediate steps were taken in concert with the police and community agencies to develop a method for processing cases, as well as developing community services. The intent of the law (ie, provide service to children in need of supervision) was somewhat diluted because it assumed that the Juvenile Court could responsibly address itself to all of youth's problems within the Juvenile Justice System. Our experience shows otherwise.

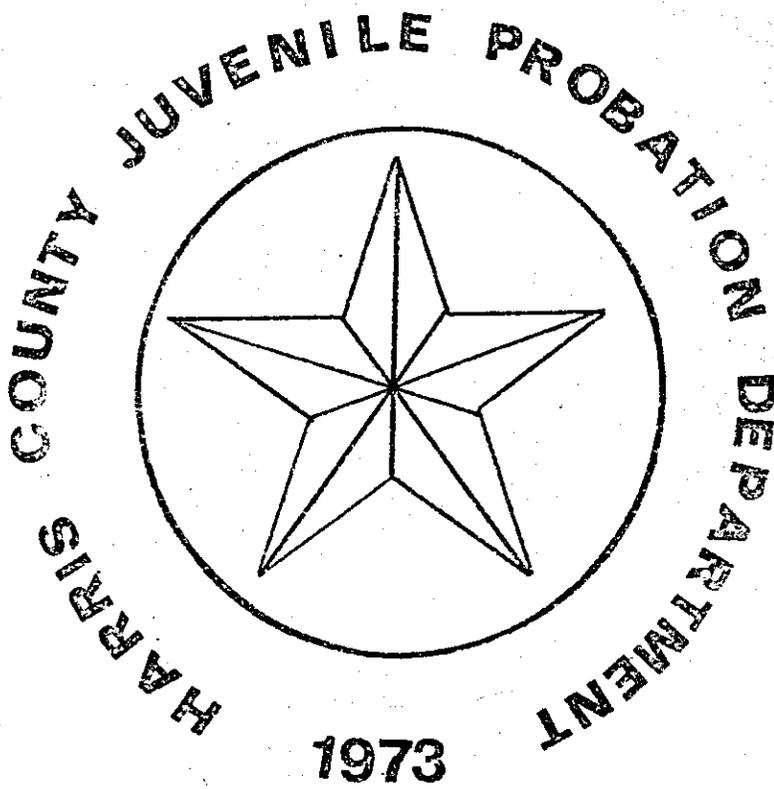

Additional impact, although of a much lessor degree, was created when Federal class action suits (Morales, et al vs Turman vs State) were brought against the Texas Youth Council. Although our county was cited, none of our cases of youth were with grievance. The low number of youth committed from our county, as well as the adherence to due process, prevented same. However, continued ruling and further orders in that case is expected, and a change in the Texas Youth Council direction will no doubt cause repercussions within our total Juvenile Justice Systems.

The needs of our community to serve youth are still apparent, and summarized in two words, service and facilities. There remains the unanswered questions of who, when, where, and how to design, fund, and implement such service.

The community and the Juvenile Justice System must address these questions realistically and soundly.

HARRIS COUNTY DETENTION HOME

The Harris County Juvenile Home is in operation to serve the needs of any juvenile in Harris County requiring secure custody. The Juvenile Home is a round the clock, total care facility. Children between the ages of 10 and 17 are detained for a variety of reasons, as defined by the Texas Juvenile Code.

The Juvenile Home is located directly adjacent to the Harris County Juvenile Probation Department. This proximity enables a high degree of communication between the child and his caseworker/ Probation Officer. Children under the jurisdiction of other agencies are aided with liaison help from the Juvenile Home casework staff.

Approximately 110 girls and boys comprise the daily population, with a yearly total of nearly 6,000 juveniles. These figures represent a constant turnover and an average length stay of 8-10 days. Children from many different socio-economic groups enter the Juvenile Home from one of Texas' largest counties. Law enforcement agencies throughout the county refer children directly to the Juvenile Probation Department for placement in the Juvenile Home.

The physical plant consists of five separate sections or wards. Children are separated in these sections by age, sophistication, seriousness of offense, and delinquent-non-delinquent behavior. Most children are given a private room, while others may live in a dormitory setting with roommates.

Each section has a school classroom where daily classes are conducted, and large recreation rooms used for indoor games and leisure time. An outdoor courtyard is utilized for group activities as are the lawns surrounding the main building.

Both individual and group counseling services are provided by the Juvenile Home. Children are seen daily by the casework staff and individual needs are handled on an individual basis. The casework staff also co-ordinates group counseling sessions with interns from local diagnostic/psychiatric associations.

Each child is routinely screened for medical problems upon his admission to the Juvenile Home. A full staff provides 24-hour nursing care. A doctor sees children daily and recommends appropriate care or hospitalization if necessary.

DAILY PROGRAMMING

A large part of the child's day consists of programming within the Juvenile Home. The programs include organized physical recreation for boys and girls, arts and crafts, sewing instruction for girls, the educational program, and a limited number of activities outside the Home.

A large and useful volunteer group conducts other activities such as the library program, visits from Planned Parenthood, a chartered Boy Scout Troop, health classes, and beauty and grooming instruction. A complete religious program is available for any child who wishes to participate. Occasional field trips are planned and children may attend a multitude of community events.

Children in detention may receive regular visits from their parents. Visits from other interested adults such as clergymen, school personnel and counselors, are encouraged.

DETENTION HEARING

The decision for detention or release is recommended by the Juvenile Court Referee and ordered by a Judge of the Juvenile Court. Daily detention hearings are held in the Juvenile Home. Each child is represented by court appointed counsel. If the criterion for detention are not established, the child will be released by the referee. Children who enter the Home are entitled to a hearing the next working day. All children must have their first hearing. Subsequent hearings may be waived by the child and the child's attorney. A child detained in custody is entitled to a detention hearing every ten days.

A hearing in Juvenile Court is set within ten days for children who must remain in detention.

Emphasis is placed on the child and his unique problems during his stay in the Juvenile Home. Every effort is made by the Juvenile Home staff to assure the child that he has not been placed in a punitive environment and that his detention is temporary, but necessary.

HARRIS COUNTY YOUTH VILLAGE

The Youth Village provides an approximate 6-month supervised residential placement, with a capacity of 110 students, directed towards educational achievement within a group setting. The educational program is augmented by active sports participation and comprehensive medical care. Casework personnel provide therapeutic counseling and may refer the child for additional psychological help. Treatment of the child at the school is coordinated with treatment of the family.

The Harris County Youth Village is a county operated facility budgeted through the Juvenile Probation Department, under the direction of the Harris County Juvenile Board.

For the purpose of placement, all students are placed in custody of the Chief Juvenile Probation Officer. This is an order from the Juvenile Courts of Harris County after having determined the child to be either delinquent or a child in need of supervision.

The Youth Village is designed for boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 15. Children referred to the Harris County Youth Village have usually had many problems in the community and need a structured environment aimed at rehabilitating the child under a treatment program for placement back in the community.

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMS

The educational programs of the Harris County Youth Village are designed to meet the needs of each student at the level on which he is capable of making progress. Each student is tested upon arrival to determine his current level of achievement, and his academic schedule is established. The classroom setting is a modern open classroom concept. Classes are small, students are programmed individually, and each student progresses at his own rate. Many students receive additional academic assistance from volunteer tutors in the community. The emphasis of the educational program is at a remedial level with hopes of motivating students to continue a formal education.

ADDITIONAL PROGRAMS

The Youth Village has numerous recreational facilities available for programming. These include indoor swimming, canoeing, horseback riding, table sports, complete gymnasium facilities, and a complete array of outdoor sports fields. All students participate in these activities in organized groups. There are intramural competitions during sports seasons. The Youth Village also has school teams which compete with other youth organizations within the area. Students may participate in the Youth Village Scout troop which provides numerous programs and camping trips throughout the year. The school is very fortunate to have rooms available for weight lifting, lounges for parents who visit each week, and many areas to make life interesting for the children.

CASEWORK SERVICES

Casework services are provided from a team approach. The Juvenile Probation Officer assigned to each child is responsible for home evaluation and making recommendations for modification. Group sessions are conducted regularly with all students participating in groups. Individual counseling is conducted in an effort to modify behavioral patterns and improve each student's ability to make appropriate decisions. Crisis problem solving and family counseling is also provided by the Youth Village caseworkers. The casework services of the Youth Village assume the purpose "to attempt to improve through therapeutic counseling, behavioral problems and to aid in the resolution of the individual's maladjustment by seeking out the social roots of his difficulties and attempting to mitigate the conflicts that have caused disturbance."

BURNETT-BAYLAND HOME

Burnett-Bayland Home is designed to care for dependent and neglected children of Harris County, Texas. The Home is located on 80 acres in Southwest Houston, housing a capacity of 12 boys or girls in 12 ultra-modern cottages. Each cottage has its own kitchen and dining room with full supervision by a cottage parent.

Burnett-Bayland Home is under the supervision of the Harris County Juvenile Probation Department and works closely with the caseworkers assigned to the children in our care. Children between the ages of 6 and 17 are referred to us by both the Harris County Child Welfare Unit and the Harris County Juvenile Probation Department.

The caseworkers supply us with the background of each child to assist us in helping the child accept and adjust to his new temporary home away from home. We provide the caseworkers with observations and progress of the child's home and school adjustment in order to assist them in making future plans for the child.

Burnett-Bayland Home endeavors to nurture the physical needs and social well-being of the children placed in our care by providing adequate shelter, food, clothing, medical treatment, education, religion, recreation and sports, as well as an atmosphere that is as home-like as possible in an institutional setting.

Each child, after admission, is taken to a clinic for a complete physical and the doctor's recommendations are followed by our registered nurse in administering immunizations, medication, treatment and referrals to other clinics.

Our students' school enrollments are divided among 12 area schools, as we have no school facilities on campus. Each child is enrolled in the school with classes which best fit his needs.

In addition to school work, our children benefit from a student library, remedial reading, remedial education, speech and motor skills therapy here at Burnett-Bayland.

We have non-denominational services every Sunday morning and a graded Sunday School nine months of the year with volunteer teachers from various churches in the community.

Our recreation department includes a well-equipped gymnasium and swimming pool with a daily recreation program during the school year and a more intensive program in the summer.

The children have a choice of a variety of sports in which to participate, including baseball, softball, volleyball, football, basketball, track and pep squad.

The community is generous with invitations for our children to go bowling, ice and roller skating, attend professional ballgames, movies, concerts, operas, plays, the circus, rodeos, picnics and special outings.

Other activities available to the children include Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Choir, Arts and Crafts and a summer school educational program that includes numerous field trips.

This report is compiled of statistical data for the year, 1973. This data will be compared to the figures gathered in 1972 so that percentages of increase and/or decrease may be shown.

After reaching a peak of 2,275 referrals for the month of October, the referral count dropped considerably during the month of November and continued its decline for the remainder of the year.

The number of referrals for boys in the various age groups of ten through sixteen years for 1972 was 9,812 referrals; during the same period of 1973, there were 12,331 referrals, an increase of 20.4%.
